“ I did not know Betty, but she introduced me to the genealogy of my biological family, the Rossmann's. I didn't know at the time how much I would later appreciate and admire the effort and wonderful tribute it was to the family name. Years later I too became avidly interested in genealogy, and the information provided by her and her husband is very precious to me. She must have been a very special person, and I am saddened that she has left before I got a chance to meet her. My condolences go out to her family and friends. Sincerely, Candace J. Lepow , daughter of Edward Charles Rossman Lepow

“ My relationship with Betty started on the phone. For a long while she was the wonderful voice of Warren Industries that helped me get my job done at Creative Publishing. Then, I got to meet her in person and we started sharing our life stories with each other and the voice became a special spirit and a supportive friend. She was there when my first children were born, she was there when my first child died - her touching words and gifts of an angel helped get me through. We shared stories of children in school, graduating, shopping, and cancer - for my son, Tristan, and for herself. She was a person of great strength and grace in dealing with her various types of cancer and has been an inspiration for me. I am so lucky to have been graced with her friendship - she will be sorely missed.
