“ One of my memories with lil Harry is that i would be cooking and harry would walk throught the door but it was weird because it was like he knew when i was cooking he would walk through the door and say "shonnie fu what you cooking " and i would tell him then " he be like ight make sure you put me up a plate " then i would be like ok then he would come back and to get his plate and say "i cook better then you " then i would say never then thats when we just go back and forth about who cooks better like he know i cook better.
