“ Mrs. Delaney, Laura, Margaret and Family, My heart aches. So many happy memories of sleeping over and a home filled with laughter and love. Mr. Delaney had a smile that would light up the room. As a know-it-all middle schooler I remember telling Laura that I didn't like when people ask "how are you" because they probably don't really care. The first time I met Mr. D. he said, "I know I'm not supposed to ask, "how are you," then he winked and grinned, "but I really do care." And he really did. Sending love and hugs dear friends. God Bless Cathy-Lynn (Cuadra) May
