“ I remember going to Elkhart in 1992, that year a tornado came through and wiped out almost everybody's tents where we were camping. I was sitting at the picnic table hugging a watermelon, and Puck was sitting at the picnic table with me hugging a bottle of Jack. We only had a couple minutes to make it to the bus, the tornado was coming, the bus was probably the worst place for us all to go but that's where we went. So, me with my watermelon and Puck with his bottle of Jack, watched one by one the tents go down, mine and Kong's actually flew over the fire and down the hill. Didn't know whether to laugh or cry, but Puck made that easy for me. He repeatedly yelled out the window of the bus, Auntie Em, Auntie Em, Toto, Toto, there were tears, but they were tears from laughter. We made it through that tornado in 1992, I am still patiently waiting for my patch. Thanks Puck for turning that nightmare into a comedy. I love you brother, Sugarboogar 💕

“ life should NOT be a journey to the grave with the intention of arriving safely in an attractive and well preserved body, but rather to skid in sideways, food in one hand ,drink in the other,body thoroughly used up ,and totally worn out and SCREAMING.....damn that was a hell of a ride.....love you brother....thanks for all the memories.....denny albright
