“ Grandma and Grandpa came from very humble backgrounds. They never got tangled up in appearances or keeping up with anybody. They liked it simple and wasted no energy/time/resources on frills. Their “big idea” was a big family, a modest but well-built home/business, homemade everything including campers/log splitters and pay as you go! Her hair-do was a fluff on each side and a poof on top. Her message was always the same: material things don't matter, family does. She was a very consistent supporter of her family. She never gave up on you.
